Western Tidewater Community Services Board (WTCSB) offers the Children's Mobile Crisis Program. The program is an emergency behavioral health service for children and adolescents under the age of 21. When a crisis arises in which the youth's behaviors, putting them at risk of hurting themselves or others or when a parent is not able to resolve the situation, Mobile Crisis Clinicians provide intervention in the home, at school or in the community.

Mobile Clinicians complete the following services:

- assesses the youth for immediate safety;
- include the parent or guardian in treatment work with the client and family to de-escalate the crisis;
- provide the family with appropriate referrals and contact information and as appropriate, complete an intake for behavioral health services;
- help the family develop an individualized safety plan;
- contact the individual's family for ongoing support to continually assess the client's safety for up to 15 days.
